Citi Investor Day Outlines Clear Path Ahead for Further Growth, Indonesia has a Leading Role to Play

New York, May 8, 2026 – Citi's 2026 Investor Day was held at the bank's headquarters in New York on May 7, 2026. Investor Day was led by Jane Fraser, Chair and Chief Executive Officer, the leaders of Citi's five businesses and the bank's Chief Financial Officer.The bank outlined a clear path to stronger, more durable returns. These included new near term and medium term RoTCE targets (Citi 2026 Investor Day CEO).

Investor Day also highlighted Citi's international network remains a core and increasing competitive advantage on the back of macro and global volatility. Citi's breadth, depth, and scale provide the resilience to support client needs in all environments, with Investor Day underlining Citi supports 80% of US and Global Fortune 500 companies around the world.

The number of unique cross-border corridors that Citi serves Banking clients in was also highlighted at around 3,800 and that in its Markets business, 42% of revenues in 2025 came from non G-10 Countries and that Asia Pacific accounts for 30% of Wealth Revenues.

More clients are leaning into Citi's physical presence in more than 90 markets and a network serving clients in more than 180 markets, that moves US$6tr daily. Targets will be achieved by driving client-led growth, including embracing technology further across the bank's five core businesses, that are increasingly connected and winning share of mind and wallet with key clients. For example, year to date Citi has advised on the three largest M&A deals announced.

Investor Day follows a strong performance at first quarter earnings on April 14 - with revenues of US$24bn up 14% year on year, and net income of US$5.8bn, up 42% year on year. Further presentations across the bank's five businesses underlined the progress made in reshaping Citi. This has been reflected in a share price that has more than doubled since the bank's last investor day in March 2022.

CEO Citi Indonesia, Batara Sianturi, stated, "Our international network and disciplined approach, as highlighted in the Investor Day, continue to drive strong growth. This is reflected in Citi Indonesia's solid 2025 performance, powered by our interconnected businesses: Banking, Markets and Services. We remain committed to delivering best-in-class solutions for clients, strengthen our support to Indonesia's economy, and contributing to Citi's sustainable growth."

Alongside Citi's Chair and CEO, the following Executive Management team also presented, including Gonzalo Luchetti (Chief Financial Officer), Shahmir Khaliq (Head of Services), Andy Morton (Head of Markets), Vis Raghavan (Head of Banking), Andy Sieg (Head of Wealth), and Pam Habner (Head of U.S. Consumer Cards).
